A LITTLE CHILD SHOT

And Instantly Killed by Her Brother While Playing.

AN ACCIDENT AT MARTIN'S FERRY

Having a Loaded Gun in the House Where There Are Children-Alice Williams, Aged Four, the Victim of an Unintended Shot from Her Father's Shotgun.

Alice, the bright little four-year-old daughter of Mr. John Walters, of Martin's Ferry, met with an awful accident yesterday. She was shot and killed instantly with a shot gan by her six-yearald-brother, George.

Mr. Waiters, who is a nailer, at the Laughlin Nail Works, and resides on North Sixth street, had been out hunting on Monday and returned with the gun loaded.

He placed the heavily loaded gun behind a bed, and supposed it would be safe there until he went hunting again yesterday afternoon. While Mrs. Walters was getting dinner Mr. Walters was town town, and the little boy, by some means, got hold of the gun and played with it on the floor.

played with it on the floor.

The shotgun was a hammerless one, and the little boy had his hands on the trigger, when suddenly it was discharged. There was a loud report and charged. There was a loud report and the entire building was shaken. The little girl, who stood near the muzzle of the gun, had the entire right side of her neck terribly lacerated and the collar bone shattered. She died instantly. The top of a chair was blown off, the window broken, shot lodged in the window frame, and pleces of flesh were scattered over one side of the room.

Mrs. Walters, who was in the kitchen.

Mrs. Walters, who was in the kitchen, ran into the room where the accident occurred and found her child lying on the floor, covered with blood and dying, the little boy crying and the room filled with the control of the room filled with the control of the contr

Dr. W. E. Hervey was summoned, but could not do anything. The gun was a No. 12 bore and No. 6 shot were

DEATH OF C. B. DOTY.

A Pioneer Nail Manufacturer Dies at Steubenville, aged Eighty.

Calvin Bradford Doty died at his home in Steubenville yesterday morning, at the ripe age of eighty years, after having been practically an invalid and confined to his room for the past seven years. Mr. Doty was a pioneer nailer and iron manufacturer of that place, and had amassed considerable wealth at his business, and was considered one at his business, and was considered one of the wealthiest citizons of Steubon-ville. His death removes one of the last of the pioneer nail makers of this valley, another of whom, Mr. Bailey, preceded him but a short time.

Mr. Doty was born in Wareham, Mass., December 11, 1813, and was descended from old New England ancestry, being a lineal descendant of Edward Doty, one of the Pilgrim fathers, who came over in the Mayflower in 1820. He learned his trade of nailing in Wareham, and early in life, as a young man, came with fellow workmen to Pittsburgh.

Later he came to Wheeling and with other nailers formed a company and built the Belmont mill. He sold his inbuilt the Beimont tain. He some afterest in this mill, and with twenty-one other workmen with whom he had been associated for several years formed a company and built the La Belle mill. Besides being an original La Belle mill. Besides being an originai stockholder, he also held a position in the mill. He was a director in the La Belle until several years ago, when the directorship passed into the hands of his son, Harry L. Mr. Doty still retained considerable stock in the company. Of the original twenty-two members of the La Belle, since the death of Mr. Beller in Boxton several days ago. Mr. Bailey in Boston, several days ago, and Mr. Doty, only two survive—John Wright, of this city, and W. R. E. Elli-

Wright, of this city, and W. R. E. Elliott, of Steubenville.

Mr. Doty removed to Steubenville about thirty-five years ago and became a stockholder and manager of the Jefferson mill. He retired from this position in 1885. He was married to Lucinda Carr, of Greensburg, and their married life was a very happy one. To them were born Mary Miller Doty, now Baroness Lagerfelt, at home; Charles Bradford, deceased; Berthia Leonora, wife of Dr. John Johnson, of Detroit, deceased, and Harry Lenwood, at home.
In addition to his large interest in the Jefferson mill, he was a stockholder and director in the Union Deposit Bank, of Steubenville.

MUST REDUCE WAGES.

The Effect of the Wilson Bill on Glass Blowers' Earnings.

A glass man of Martin's Ferry, in syeaking of the Wilson bill last night, said: "Now take a fifteen-pot furnace making thin blown tumblers, and the output would be about $1,000 per day, and the breakage of pots, bad glass, etc., would be about 20 per cent of the production, leaving about $800. The cost of free raw materials under the Wilson bill would be $4 50 per day less, and the finished output $150 less, making a net loss of $145 50 between the Wilson and McKinley bills. This would mean a cut in waces of about 45 per cent. A fitteen-pot furnace, with thirty shops, will make about 3,000 dozen tumblers a day, and, as the selling price is in the neighborhood of 33½ cents per dozen, this would make $1,000. A glass blower who now earns $3 40 per day would make only about $1 93 if there is a reduction of 45 per cent, which would be the natural result." and the breakage of pots, bad glass, etc.,

THE ARGUMENT BEGUN

In the Wilson Murder Trial at St. Clairs-In the common pleas court at St. Clairsville yesterday the argument was begun in the case of William Wilson, on trial for the murder of Officer Murphy, at Martin's Ferry. Albert Lawrence opened for the state, followed by Messrs. Shay and Danford followed by Messrs. Shay and Danford for the defense.

Mr. Lawjence's argument was but one and a half hours long, yet he went over all the testimony, the important parts very minutely, especially Westwood's and Witson's testimony. That part which said a shot was fired from a car window was taken up, and he held that the shot could not have hit Murphy if the defense's witnesses were to be believed, as they had said a large crowd was between the point where Murphy stood and the car. The testimony which told of Murphy's saying as he saw the told of Murphy's saying as he saw the men catch Wilson, "That's the man! Hold him! I'm done for!" was enough

Mr. Lawrence's effort was considered y his fellow lawyers a logical and by his fellow lawyers a report brilliant one.

Thomas Shay, of Cincinnati, spoke for four and three-fourths hours.

In opening he mentioned the fairness of the trial of his client. He scored the witnesses for the state severely.

The depositions were gene over again, then the self-defense plea was taken up. He claimed the cars were the home of the show people and these boys went there and invited the show people out to fight; that Wilson was justifiable in repulsing any assault, especially that of Westwood, who was in citizens' clothes. Mr. Shay said in all his experience he never had heard of a trial for cutting or shooting in which the clothes of the dead person were not brought in by the state as evidence. He held that the hole in the coat would have been evidence of the size of the bullet. In the position in which, he claimed, Murphy was standing, he could not have been sold by Wilson and the bullet take the course given by the doctors.

Mr. Shay claimed that the shot which was fired from the car window was the cause of the death of Officer Murphy. During his eloquent argument the court room was crowded.

Mr. Danford followed on behalf of Milson, and spoke for one and a quarter hours. He took up the story as told by Watkins, and pointed out the improbabilities of such a story in an effective manner. He claimed that Wilson was a quiet, peaceable man until he reeived the first blow from Westwood's black jack. He said Officer Bowman was excited during this trouble and on the stand could account for things he didn't see by the crowd being so thick, and the things he did see by the crowd getting thin; and said that he ran around the

In discussing the course of the bullet, he claimed that a man of Wilson's height could not point a revolver in a direction to hit a man of Murphy's size for the ball to enter in the body at the third or fourth rib and come out near the spinal cripme through the cighth the spinal crlumn through the eighth

A produce dealer said yesterday that more game is coming to Wheeling right now than has been the case in right now than has been the case in late years. Though quail and pheasants are scarce as "hen's teeth" in this section the interior of the state is sending to Wheeling large quantities, as well as wild turkeys and deer. All that comes here finds a ready sale, even though the prices are a little steep.
